

impact on both. Regulation and the establishment of rules to enforce laws are necessary to protect consumers in financial transactions and also to ensure that appraisers can act independently without undue pressure.